

CENTRAL'S NEW ALL HAIL MURPHY TERMINAL PLAN. AS THE CHIEF.

Hudson River Road Suggests Depression of Yards and the Abandonment of Proposed Widening of Park Avenue.

TO CONNECT WITH SUBWAY.

Every Track to Be Depressed so that Bridge May Cross at Intersecting Streets, and All Grade Crossings to Be Eliminated.

Final plans for the improvement of the New York Central's terminal facilities at the Grand Central Station were to-day presented to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment by Ira A. Place, attorney for the corporation.

Mr. Place submitted a letter from President Newman, who discussed the proposed widening of Park avenue, the depression of tracks and the change of motive power in connection with the elimination of grade crossings at Morris Heights, Fordham Heights and High Bridge, and the grade crossings in the vicinity of Kingsbridge, including Kingsbridge road, East Two Hundred and Thirtieth street, Broadway, Corlear street, Thirtieth avenue, West Two Hundred and Thirtieth street and West Two Hundred and Twenty-seventh street.

The letter continues: "If the method of depressing the entire terminal yard and its approaches to such an extent as may be necessary to carry existing streets over the tracks by means of viaducts or bridges shall be adopted it will be necessary for the railroad company to obtain the right to use certain portions of Park avenue and of the intersecting streets beneath the surface. The plan of widening Park avenue and of widening the existing cut from Forty-ninth street to Fifty-seventh street and of closing certain portions of Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets could then be abandoned."

What the Company Proposes.

The company then proposes to eliminate grade crossings at Morris Heights, Fordham Heights and Highbridge by constructing at its own expense the necessary bridges and abutments to carry the streets over its tracks, the city to bring the streets by proper approaches to the grade of the bridges. It suggests two methods of eliminating the seven grade crossings in the vicinity of Kingsbridge.

Concerning the enlargement of its terminal yard this proposal is made:

"The company will depress all of its tracks between the southerly line of Forty-fifth street and Fifty-seventh street, to such an extent as may be necessary to enable the city to carry by means of viaducts or bridges over the tracks, at a grade not exceeding 4 per cent, such of the intersecting streets from Forty-fifth to Fifty-sixth streets, both inclusive, as the city may deem necessary in the public interest, the expense of which shall be borne by the railroad company's tracks to be borne by the city."

Privileges Demanded.

"In consideration of the great expense of the railroad company in depressing its tracks for the above purpose, the latter shall be given the right to use, subject to the approval of the city, to construct and maintain such bridges or viaducts, those portions of Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, Forty-seventh, Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth streets included within the limits of its enlarged yard, and of Park avenue, from the southerly side of Forty-fifth street northerly to Forty-seventh street (the existing roadway of Park avenue not to be interfered with), and to a connection with the Rapid Transit subway at the second street, and the right to erect and maintain on any bridges or viaducts carrying streets over its tracks, such signal, electrical and other apparatus as may be required for the operation of its road."

"If the changes of the terminals at the Grand Central Station are made, it may be found necessary to use the land under the surface of Vanderbilt avenue and Depece place, but without interfering with the surface of these streets."

Place Replies to Grount.

Mr. Place explained the plans of the company. He referred to the Mayor's criticism last week that New York City has expended more than $6,000,000 for the New York Central and said the money had been authorized by law, and that the city has benefited in a much greater degree than the railroad.

All the protesting associations sent delegations headed by the Mayor's Council Chamber. Everybody seemed deeply interested in the plan, and Mayor Low offered a resolution declaring that the tracks should be so depressed that the intersecting streets could be crossed at grade level for the first time in the history of the city.

The resolution was adopted and the matter was referred to a committee consisting of the Mayor, Comptroller, President of the Board of Aldermen, President of the Borough of Manhattan and President of the Borough of the Bronx to report on or before Dec. 12.

Cornelius O'Reilly protested against the city changing any part of the cost of the changes contemplated, but Comptroller Grount interrupted him.

Grount Stands for City.

"Don't trouble about that," Mr. Grount said, "we'll sign that part of the plan very carefully." That announcement of Mr. Grount received a lot of applause and the Comptroller went on, addressing Mr. Place: "Now, I want to object to you posing as a philanthropist and trying to show that your railroad is being operated merely for the benefit of the city. I don't want you to appear any better than you are. I should like you to explain your occupation of Forty-sixth street to Lexington avenue, without any authority in law and merely upon the permit of former Commissioners Keating and Wilson. I should like to learn in what degree the unbusinesslike action of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad, which we believe, is the only one in the power to give us that authority, if we are occupying any ground in the city, really you have the power to cut us."

Leaders of Party Hosts Assemble at the Democratic Club To-Night to Congratulate New Tammany Leader.

NO ONE DISPUTES HIS SWAY.

Dinner Really a Declaration of Allegiance to the Man Who Re-United Party and Achieved Victory in Piling Up Votes for Coler.

In the days of the Roman Empire, when a victorious general returned after conquering the barbarians, he was accorded an ovation. All the people of Rome, rich and poor, turned out to pay homage.

The gates of the city were thrown open and in marched a marvelous procession, with its dancing girls, gladiators, patricians and the invincible Roman legions. For a week or more Rome resounded with the shrieks of dying victims in the Circus Maximus, the merry-making of thousands who crowded the streets day and night and lived for the time off the Empire's generosity, for the most part wheat and corn brought from the granaries of Egypt.

The victor himself got only a sprig of laurel. New York, the Rome of the twentieth century, will to-night give an ovation, also to celebrate a victory, but not one of the battle-field.

Murphy Is the Victor.

Every prominent Democrat in the city, and the rest of the late election show that their followers are greater in numbers than the entire population of ancient Rome, will be present at the Democratic Club to greet the new and successful leader, Charles F. Murphy.

The victor in a twentieth century political contest will receive an ovation so much as a crown of laurel. It will be only a word from each man that grasps his hand: "Hello, Charley; you did well!" But to a Tammany Hall leader that is a great deal.

Follows Usual Custom.

It has always been customary in the Democratic Club to give a reception to the newly-elected leader. Croker had several; Nixon one, and to-night Charley Murphy will shake hands with 3,000 New York Democrats.

"You know," said one of the veteran retainers who remembers "Boss" Tweed, "since the late mayor is elected, Croker—'this place has been dead. Now he said, 'fondly arranging the arches and the streets, the good old times are going to come back.' Underneath the portrait of Dick Croker, painted by Beninger, Leader Murphy, just as sphinx like, taciturn and grim, but more approachable than his predecessor, will stand and greet his friends."

His bodyguard will be near, men of influence in every walk in life—Supreme Court judges, lawyers, business men, financiers and even clergymen. The officers of the club will be present: John Fox, president; Corl Meyer, first vice-president; Lewis Nixon, second vice-president; Theodore F. Haasali, secretary; Adrian T. Kierman, corresponding secretary.

The Board of Governors—John W. Keller, J. E. Crimmins, John J. Scannell, P. Henry Dugro, Andrew Freedman, Aza Gardner, Edward F. O'Dwyer, James Shevlin, John P. Carroll, Oliver H. Belmont, M. Warley Platzek, Robert A. Van Wyck, Eugene L. Buehler and Judge Herman Joseph—will also be present, bespeaking their admiration of the new leader and the victory he has won, able to roll up 87,000 Democratic majority in the city.

To Be No Speeches.

According to custom, there will be no speeches in the reception. In informal invitations have been issued to every candidate in the recent election, successful or otherwise. Senators, Assemblymen, Congressmen and district leaders, the friends were given each twelve tickets to distribute to their most deserving henchmen.

"MILLINERY ROW" UPSET.

Bootblack Stabbed Expressman and Women Were in a Panic.

Abraham Jelnick, an expressman, of No. 52 Chrystie street, and Giovanni Caparelli, a bootblack of No. 47 Mulberry street, quarreled to-day in "Millinery Row," which is the block on Division street, just east of the Bowery. At the wind-up, Giovanni stabbed Abraham in the abdomen, as any good judge of names might guess. Jelnick is in Gouverneur Hospital, where it is said he will recover. Caparelli is at large. "Millinery Row" is in the state of nervous prostration, due to the undue excitement. The women hat-fillets filled the street with screams long after the fight.

REMANDED TO CORONER.

Man and Two Women Held as Result of Another's Death.

Nellie Shannon, twenty-six, of No. 280 West Twenty-sixth street; Edward Ross, twenty-two, of No. 300 West Twenty-sixth street, and Ellen Sheehan, no home, who were arrested on Monday night, charged with knowing something about the death of Frank Shannon, husband of Nellie, who was found in front of the No. 280 West Twenty-sixth street, and who died later in the New York Hospital Tuesday morning, were arraigned in Jefferson Market Court to-day and remanded to the custody of the coroner.

SAD FATE FOR A NERVE DIDN'T GET CIVIL WAR HERO. PROPERTY BACK.

Gen. Nicola Powers, Who Fought Under Burnside, Sent to Island at Own Request.

Ryan Bought Real Estate with Another Man's Money, Then Had to Give It Up.

Magistrate Crane in Yorkville Court this morning committed Gen. Nicola Powers, an aged veteran, who distinguished himself under Major-General Burnside in several battles in the civil war, to the island for six months at the man's own request.

Gen. Powers, who is a distinguished looking, though feeble, old man, while telling the Magistrate his war record was seized with an epileptic fit and had to be carried from the court room. He said that when the war broke out he was commissioned as a lieutenant in Company K, of the Twenty-first Massachusetts Volunteers, at Worcester, and served with his regiment throughout the Rebellion. He said he had fought under Gen. Burnside in the battles of Roanoke Island, Newburn and Camden, and was breveted a brigadier-general for his gallant service in action.

Up to last summer he had been at a Soldiers' Home at Bath, N. Y., when he was discharged. Lately he has been suffering from a nervous ailment, and has been unable to get on his feet. He was taken to the New York Hospital, where he died last night. He was buried in the New York Hospital, where he died last night. He was buried in the New York Hospital, where he died last night.
